

Boozle Manual Test Plan

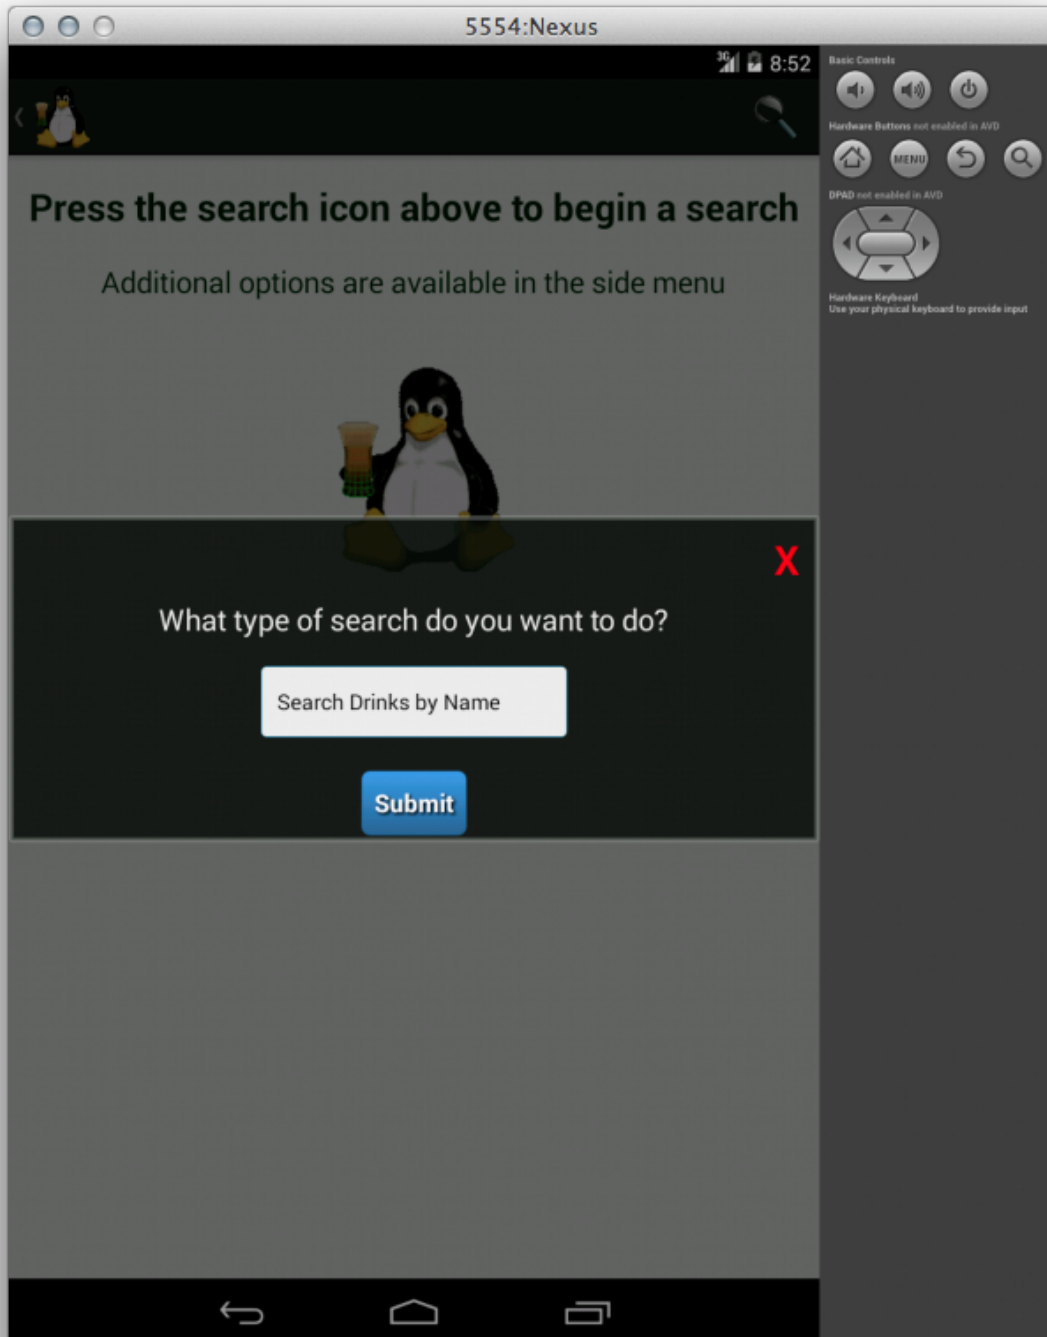

1) To start off, open the Boozle app using a supported Android device. The loading screen should look like below.

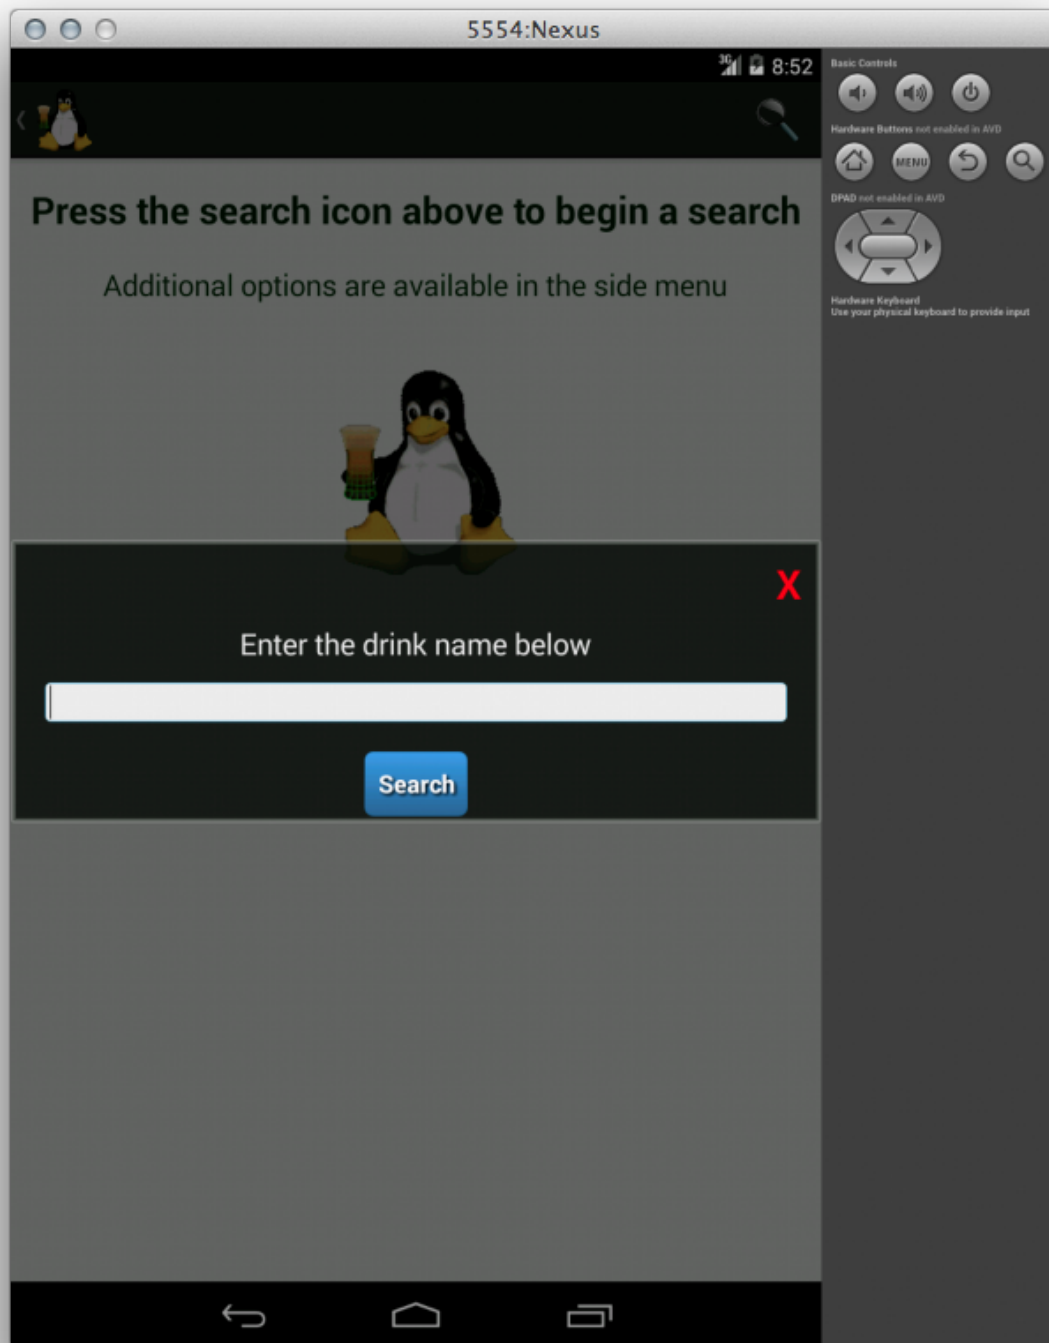

2) After all the data, objects, and user interface have all loaded you will be taken to the home screen which should look like below.

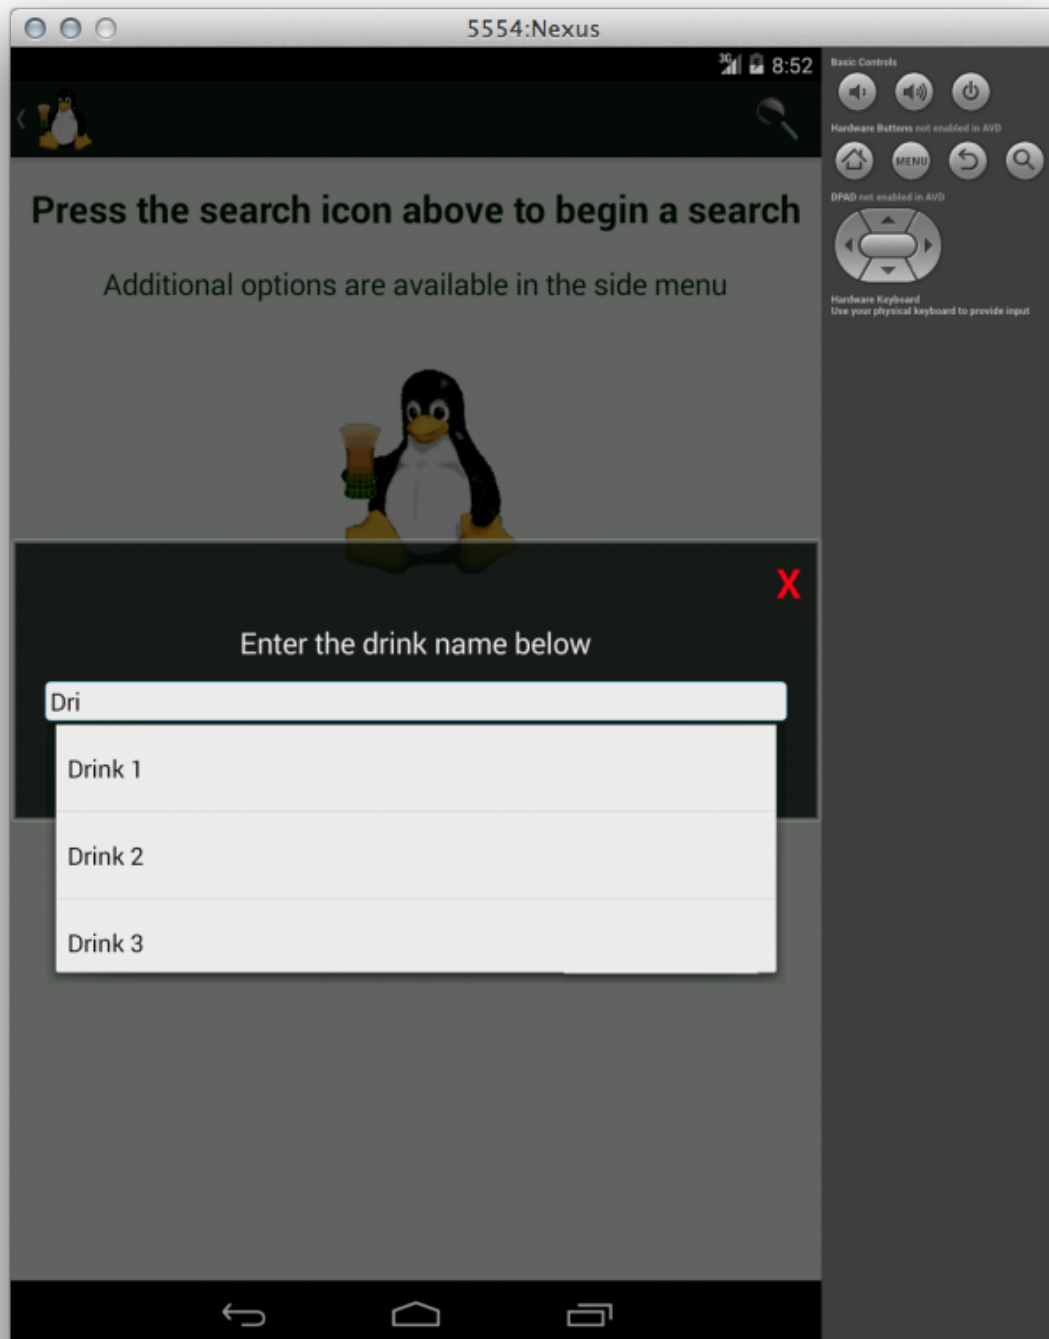

3) To begin a search for a recipe, then start by clicking the magnifying glass located at the top right of the screen. This should bring up a selection box to allow you to choose whether you want to search for recipes by name or ingredients.

4) The default option should be search by name. Click the submit button to begin searching by name and it should bring up the search box.

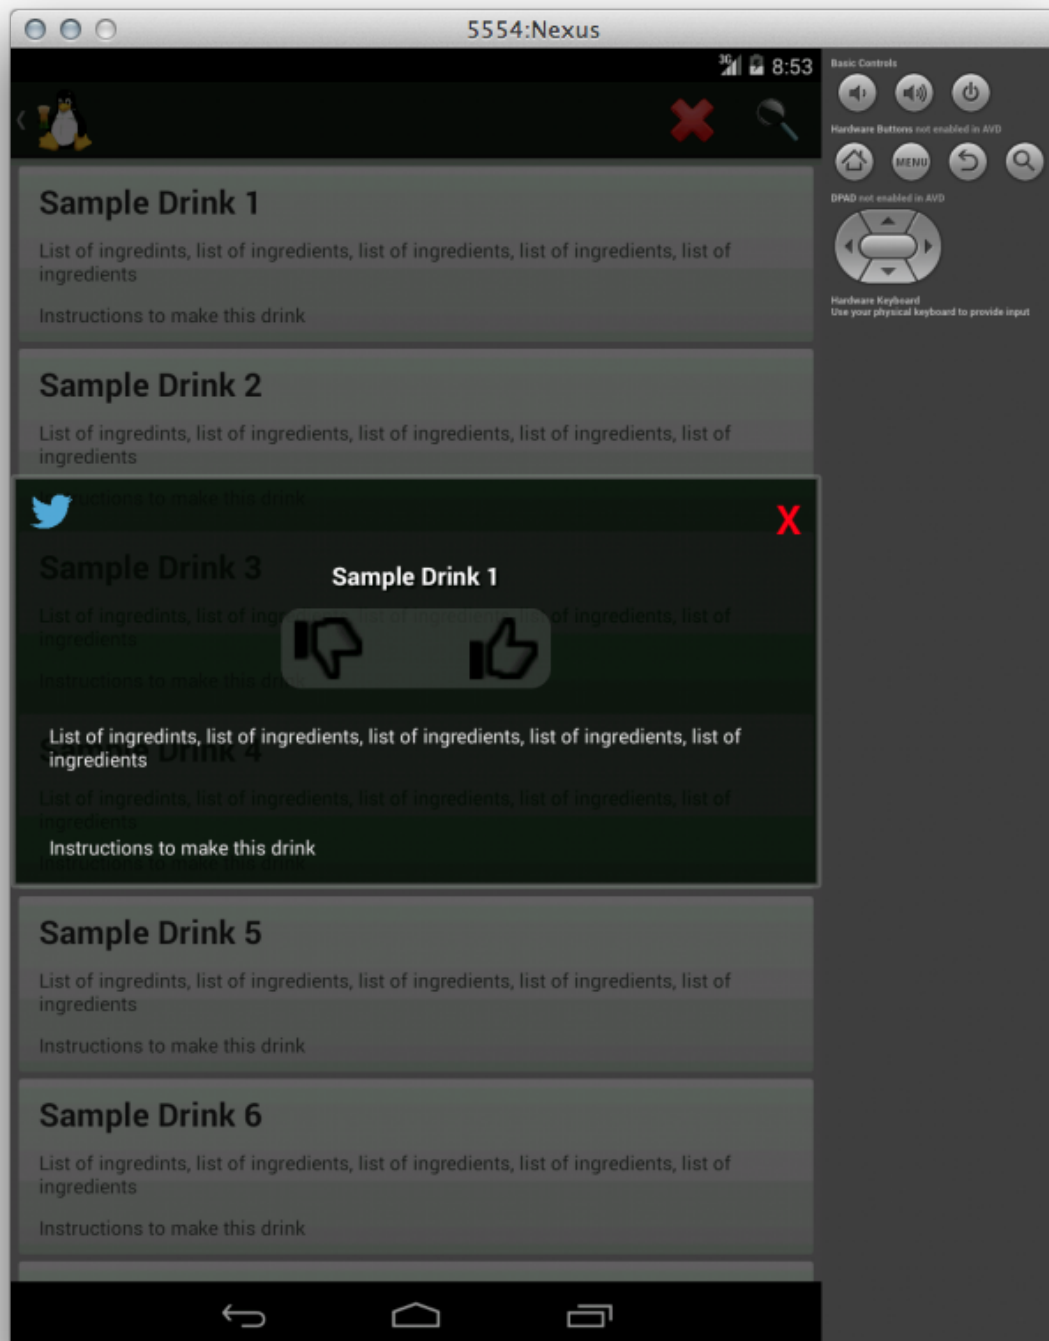

5) As you begin searching for ingredients, a list of valid recipes should appear below the search box. Continue to type characters until the recipe you are searching for appears, when it does select it.

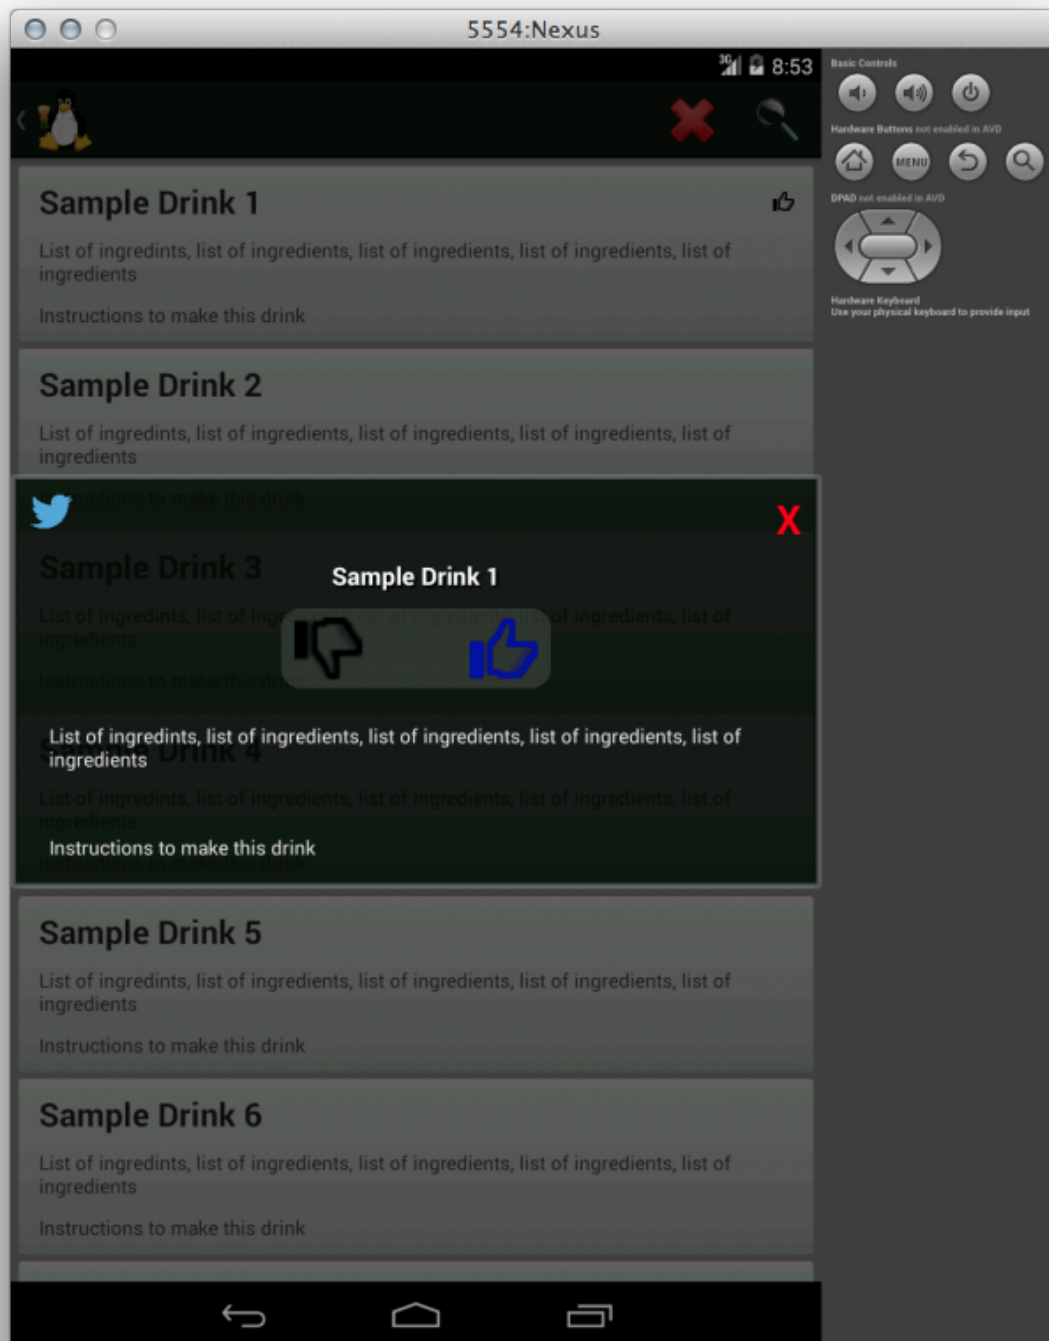

6) After the name of the recipe you are searching for is in the search box, tap the blue search button and a list of recipes should appear.

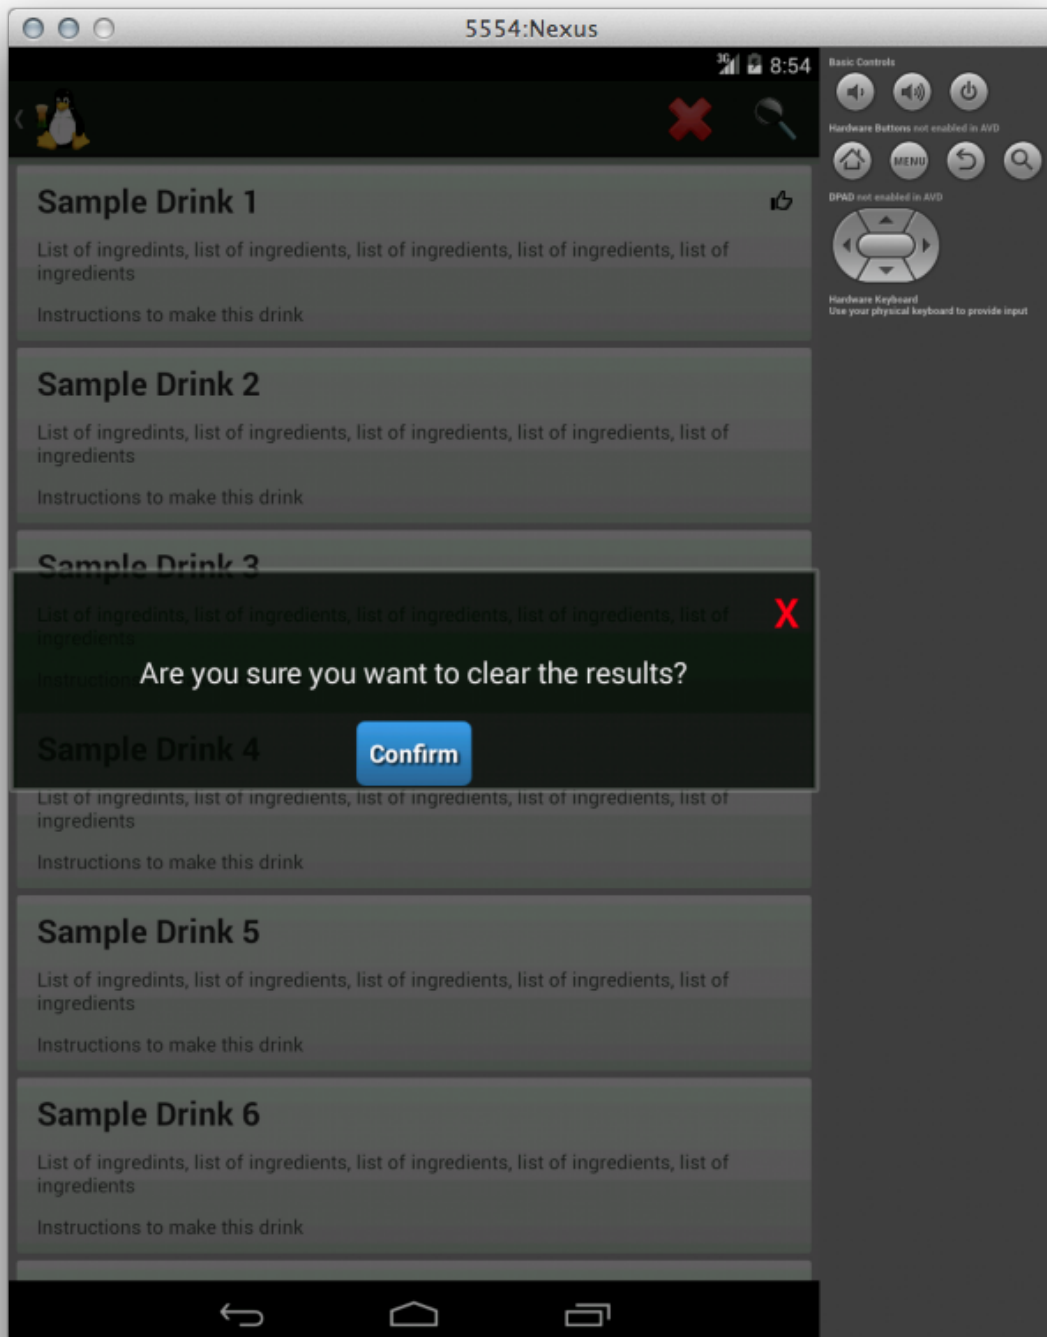

7) To see details about the drink, tap it and a pop up should appear that contains additional information about the drink.

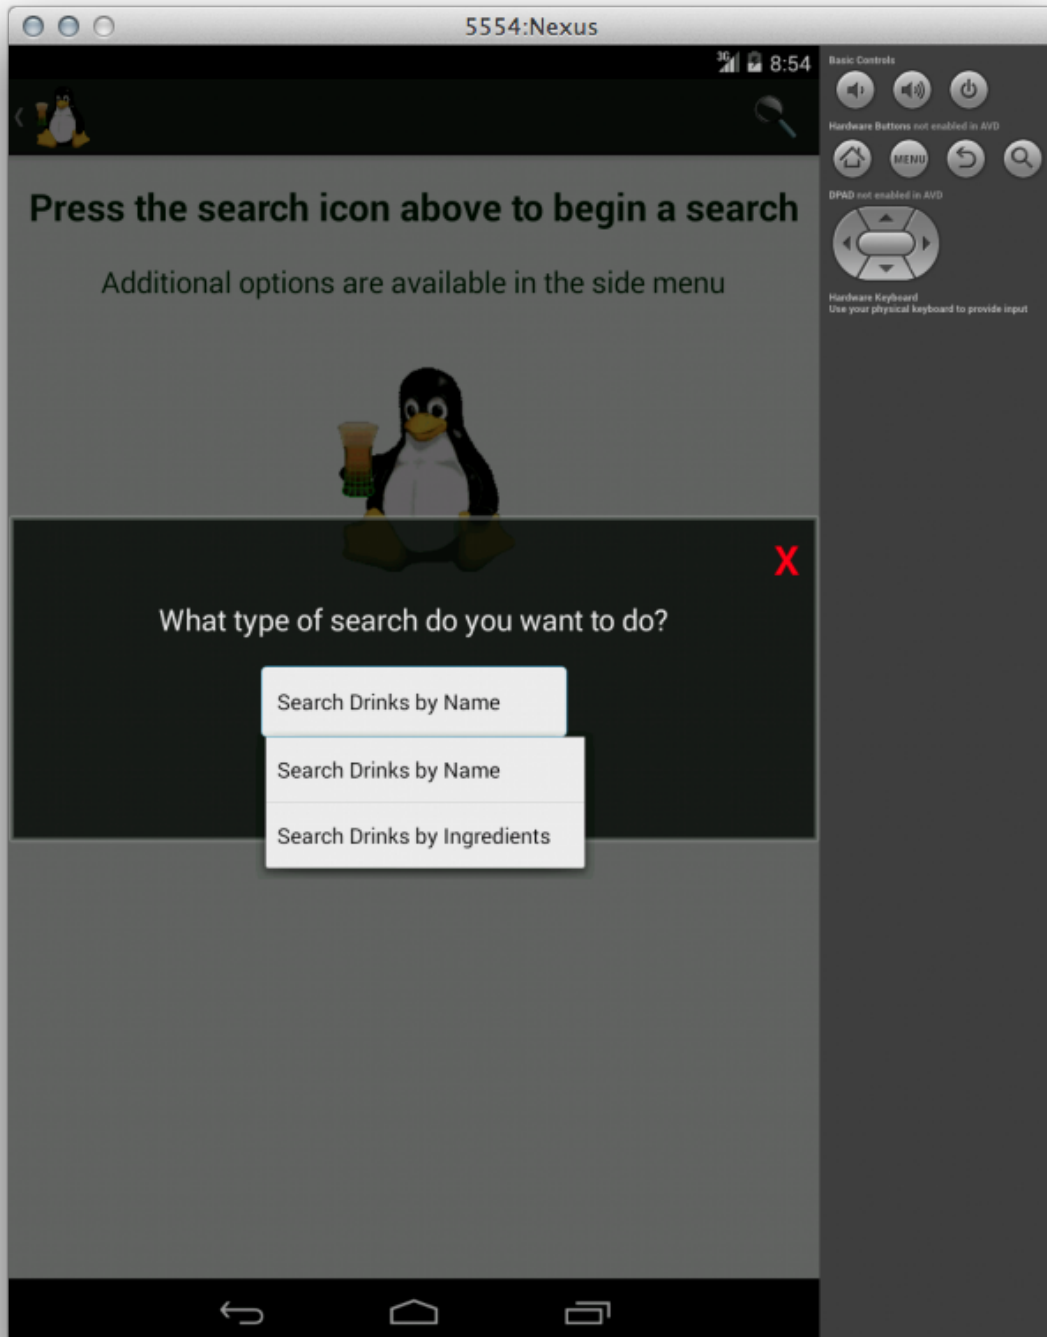

8) To thumbs up the drink, tap the thumbs up button. This should highlight the thumbs up button with a blue color.

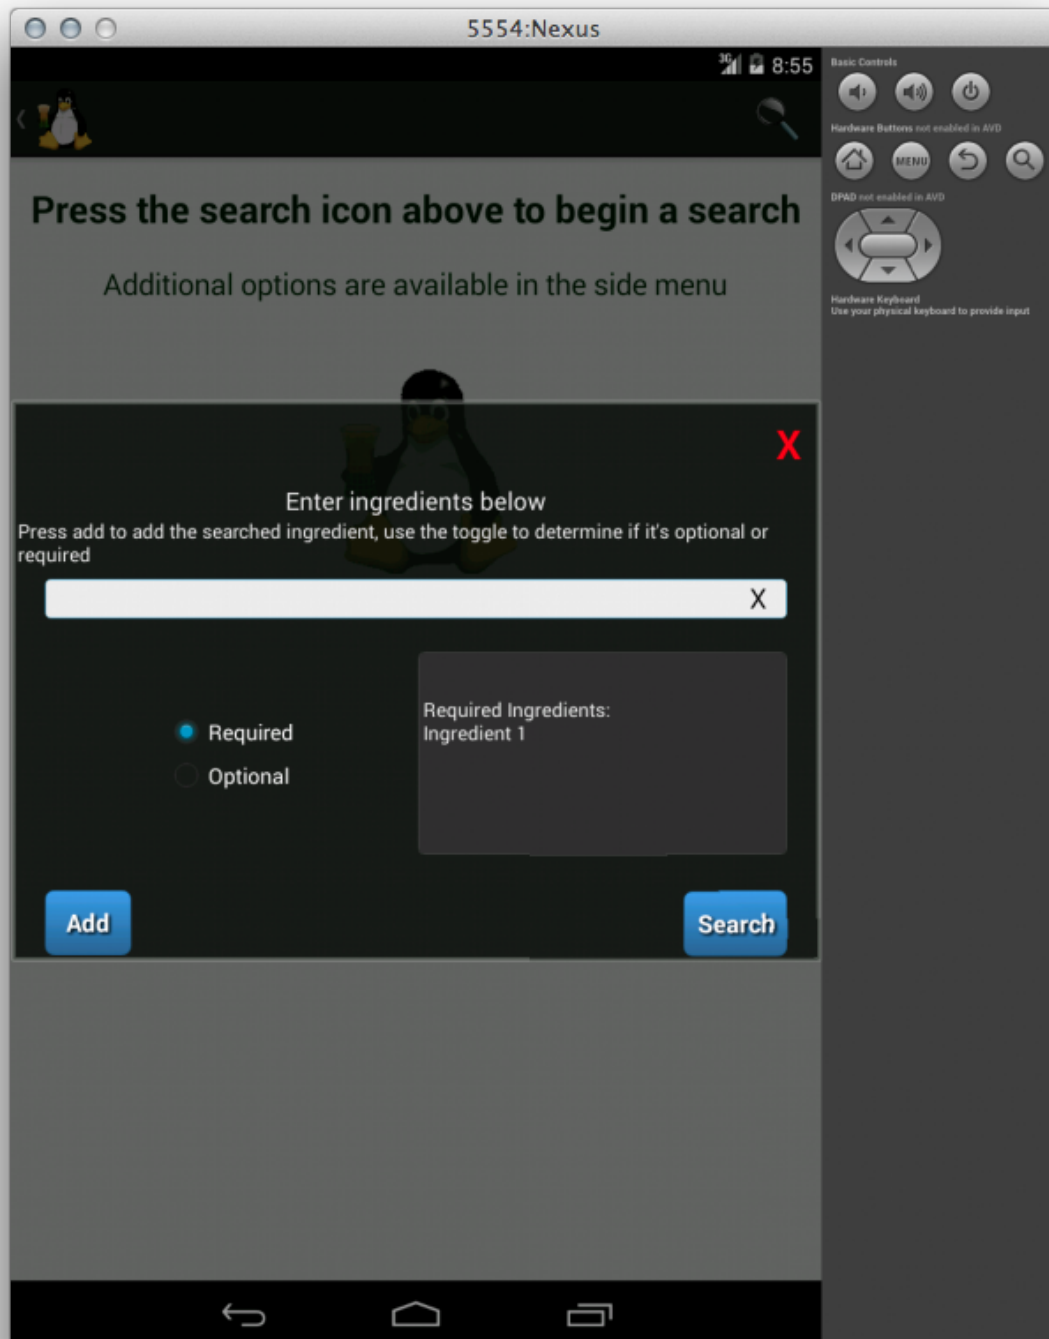

9) To return back to the main menu, tap the red X at the top right of the pop up. This will close out the pop up. Then tap the red X at the top right of the screen and that will ask you if you're sure you want to clear the results. Tap confirm and it will bring you back to the main menu.

10) Once you're at the main menu, follow steps 2 and 3 to get to the search options menu. Once there click on the "Search Drinks by Name" box and that should expand revealing the option to "Search Drinks by Ingredients." Select the second option and tap submit.

11) Here you will have the option to add ingredients to the search. Tap the search bar and start typing characters. A list of ingredients should appear. Once you see the ingredient you are searching for select it. Then mark whether it is optional or required for the search, and then select add. This will add it to the list of searched ingredients.

12) From there you can add as many ingredients as you want and then tap search. This will bring up a list of results similar to "Search by Name." From here you can do the same things as you did with the results as you did with the previous search.
